BIG REPUBLICAN RALLY-DAY AND NIGHT, OCTOBER 22.

RUSSIANS HELD IN CHECK

BUT NO DECISIVE BATTLE HAS OCCURRED.

Reports of Severe Fighting Between the Two Armies—St. Petersburg Confident Kuropatkin Will Win Out.

For three days there has been sharp fighting a little north of Yental, between Liao Yang and Mukden. The Russian advance was checked and the attacking force compelled to retire to the north side of the Schill river, but subsequently recrossed the south side of that stream, where at last accounts a terrific artillery fight was in progress. In military circles at St. Petersburg the fighting noted is not considered as being of the magnitude of a general engagement, such as is expected, possibly within a few days, some where within a triangle, with lines connecting Liao Yang, Yental and Sanku. When it is fought, it is expected to be decisive of this year's campaign. Wounded Russian soldiers who have been taken back to Mukden show by their cheerfulness the improvement that has been produced on the spirits of the troops by Kuropatkin's course is assuming the offensive.

Mukden, Oct. 11, 11 p. m.—A bloody battle raged now about six miles north of Yental railroad station. The Japanese on Sunday fell back along the whole front and Russian advance guards crossed the Schill river (about half way between Mukden and Liao Yang) and came within three miles of Yental, but yesterday the Japanese received strong reinforcements of infantry and artillery and not only held their positions but even assumed the offensive. Fighting lasted the entire day and night. The Japanese directed their artillery fire with great skill and the search of the Russian positions was so fierce that the Russians fell back north of the Schill river, which crosses the railroad seven miles from Yental. The Russians this morning resumed their advance, once more crossing the Schill river and engaged the Japanese two miles south of it. A terrific artillery engagement is proceeding along the entire front. The result of the battle is still undecided.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 11.—Severe fighting north of Yental, resulting in temporary check of Kuropatkin's advance guard, of which the Associated Press correspondent at Mukden telegraphed the first news, is not regarded at the war office as indicating a general engagement. The latest official dispatches indicating the disposition of various corps show that the whole army is not yet in line of battle. The present engagement may therefore be regarded as the result of a counter attack which an enterprising foe like the Japanese might be expected to make without any calculation to prevent the Russian advance. Kuropatkin's present superiority in numbers, it is held here, is bound sooner or later to compel the Japanese to fall back upon their strong positions within the triangular formed by Yental, Liao Yang and Sykwan. Everything points to that district as being the prospective scene of the decisive struggle of this year's campaign. Strategic reasons of a most weighty character render it imperative for the Russians, as well as the Japanese, to bestow their chief attention upon the country east of the railway. The Russians are compelled to this course because the railroad runs northward and hence the lines of communication are more vulnerable from the east. The Japanese are influenced by a similar consideration, but the railroad no longer plays a foremost part in their plans. In view of the approach of the close of navigation at Yinkow and of the fact that the line from Plesow is long and cumbersome and liable to interruption, they must consider Plesow and Makuhara as the source of supplies during the winter and with this in view the eastern communications of Liao Yang are of utmost importance. The Yental triangle is admirably adapted to protect them. Oyama must therefore hold this triangle at all costs. The problem confronting Kuropatkin in the immediate future is the capture of fortified heights composing the triangle, where the Japanese will have the advantage of fighting behind breastworks and utilizing their superiority in mountain guns. The general superiority of the Japanese in mountain operations is conceded. The Russian commander undoubtedly is aware of the difficulties of the task before him, has measured them well and is confident of his ability to overcome them. If Kuropatkin possessed an army of half a million men he could leave a sufficient force to attack the triangle while he moves with the remainder around the eastern and western flanks. This is considered in best informed circles at the war office to be impracticable with the numbers now composing Kuropatkin's army, and a frontal advance is the only alternative. Operations, however, are likely to be marked by feints on the right and left. The Japanese probably will make similar movements until both armies become involved in a death struggle.

JAPANESE LOSS.
Tokio, Oct. 11.—The Japanese gunboat Hosen struck a mine in Pigeon bay, west of Port Arthur Sept. 18 and sunk. Only four of the crew of 300 were rescued.

MAKES NO DISTINCTION

Huntsville, Ala., Oct. 11.—Judge Thomas G. Jones in opening the United States court here today delivered a vigorous charge to the grand jury with regard to the recent lynching of Horace Maples, colored, and firing by the mob of the jail in which were confined federal prisoners. Judge Hunt said in part:

"If you are fairly satisfied the mob would not have murdered Maples if he had been a white man, then every distate of humanity and justice demands you to return true bills against the members of the mob."

TORPEDO BOATS IN WRECK.

Minneapolis, N. D., Oct. 11.—Two, knocked down torpedo boats enroute over the Great Northern to Seattle were wrecked near Towner, early today, through the breaking of a car journal. It is presumed the journal was tampered with at Rugby. During the summer a number of Russians had been employed on section crews at Towner.

DISCUSS THE CANONS

The Episcopal General Convention Consider the Re-marriage Subject.

Boston, Oct. 11.—The proposed change in the canons of the Episcopal church, whereby clergymen are forbidden to marry any who have been divorced, was discussed for two hours by the house of deputies at today's session of the Episcopal general convention. The house was sitting in a committee of the whole and consideration of the subject is regarded as one of the most important to come before the present convention and will be taken up from time to time until finally disposed of. The present canon on marriage permits remarriage of innocent persons in a divorce suit where infidelity is alleged. For some time there has been strong sentiment in the church that the clergy should not marry even the innocent person. The committee on canons presented an amendment to the present canon forbidding the remarriage of any persons who had been divorced. A minority report, permitting the present canon to remain as it is, with the exception of an added provision for the presentation of the court's evidence when an applicant for remarriage appears before a clergyman, was submitted.

Rev. Dr. Parks, R. H. Battle, of Raleigh, N. C., and Rev. C. B. Vanwattres, of Portland, Ore., spoke in behalf of the minority report, while the majority was advocated by Rev. John Williams, of Omaha, Neb.; E. H. Batley, of Chicago; Rev. Samuel Ringgold, of Knoxville, Tenn.; and C. H. Standley, of Washington, D. C. The archbishop of Canterbury was present during the session.

ARMOUR AND HIS CHARGES

HIS METHOD OF MARKET CONTROL.

Investigation of the Commerce Commission Into the Private Car Traffic—Evidence Adduced in the Case.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—The interstate commerce commission today continued its investigation of the private car traffic. John Leverone, a Cincinnati fruit merchant testified before the investigators that Armour & Co. sold pineapples in Cincinnati at prices which could not possibly be made by competitors, in order to coerce produce dealers into using Armour refrigerator cars. He declared that Armour & Co. not only charged fruit shippers arbitrarily high prices for the use of lead cars, but through arrangements with fruit carrying lines like the Louisville & Nashville, practically compelled consignees to use Armour cars. Then, having forced dealers to hold their goods at high prices to cover excessive transportation cost, the Armours are in the habit, he averred, of turning about and underselling dealers to a degree that debars the latter from doing business in any particular line of goods. Leverone testified that Armour & Co. could afford to undersell him $35 a car load and still make a profit, so overwhelming was their advantage through the ownership of fruit transportation facilities. He produced documentary evidence on behalf of other Cincinnati firms showing the Armour Refrigerator Car line extorted $35 for hauls, for which other companies charged only $5.

Several railroad men and members of packing and refrigerator companies were examined during the day, but very little information was secured from them.

NOT LEGAL.

Milwaukee, Oct. 11.—Judge Halsey in the circuit court today decided the eight hour law as applied to city contracts illegal. The case is one in which the city advertised for bids on a city contract specifying that the contract was to be figured on the basis of an eight hour work day. The contract was awarded to an Ohio firm, where the eight hour law was in force, in preference to a Milwaukee firm, whose price was lower, but whose work day exceeded eight hours. Halsey decrees the city charter provides for contracts being let to the lowest bidder. The case is to be appealed.

SUICIDES.

St. Louis, Oct. 11.—Rather than have a finger amputated by a surgeon today, Alvin Schreier, 50 years old, committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid. He took the poison while the surgeon was waiting for him to prepare himself for the operation.

A SEVERE SENTENCE.

Bellefonte, Pa., Oct. 11.—Nelle Gardner and Mabel Wright were today convicted of complicity in the murder of John Dunlap. Punishment was fixed at fourteen years each in penitentiary. The girls are 18 years of age and in view of the fact the charge was only constructive completely some surprise was expressed over the severity of the sentence.

FLEET SAILS.

Revel, Russia, Oct. 11.—The Baltic fleet weighed anchor early this morning and sailed for Libau, one torpedo boat destroyer remaining behind because of a broken rudder.

THE CREW AT FAULT.

Warrensburg, Mo., Oct. 11.—The crew of the extra freight which collided with the Missouri Pacific world's fair train yesterday, resulting in the death of twenty-nine persons, is held responsible for the disaster by the coroner's jury which returned a verdict to night. The prosecuting attorney said he would immediately begin prosecution of the persons charged with the responsibility of the wreck by the coroner's jury.

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

D., of Oak Park, Ill., offered a series of amendments to the constitution of the board, which if adopted at the business meeting to morrow will enlarge its membership and increase representation of the local church in state and local association of conferences of churches. There is opposition to the amendments by those who hold that the board is now large enough to represent adequately churches and associations. The action to night was delivered by Rev. Reuben Thomas, D. D., of Brookline, Mass.

ADVANCE OF RATES.

Haynes, brakemen on the freight train which crashed into the Missouri Pacific train near Warrensburg, were arrested here today charged with stealing $37 from the body of a fellow brakeman named Zeddel, who was killed. A blood stained railroad ticket issued to James England, of Dexter, Kas., was found in the pocket of one of the men arrested. Zeigler and Haynes are among those accused by the coroner's jury as responsible for the wreck.

As far as possible the officers of the army and navy of German descent will come to Washington from nearby posts and will participate in the ceremonies. Speeches will be made by the president, Ambassador Sternburg, Secretary Taft and the anthem of American and Germany will be sung.

CAMPAIGN MOVEMENTS

THE DAY'S DOINGS IN THE POLITICAL FIELD

Senator Fairbanks Makes Several Iowa Speeches and is Greeted with Great Throngs—Other Happenings.

Rockwell, Iowa, Oct. 11.—Representative Smith repeated at Denison his prediction that Senator Fairbanks would be the next Republican nominee for president and interest in the remark was enhanced by the fact Denison is the home of Secretary Shaw, who is himself considered a probable candidate for first place on the ticket in 1908. The prediction was received with some applause.

Fort Dodge, Iowa, Oct. 11.—Fort Dodge being the home of Senator Dolliver, Senator Fairbanks here referred in complimentary terms to the Iowa senator. He discussed the monetary question, saying that eight years ago the Democratic party had been mistaken in its prediction about silver as it had been mistaken about all other questions. He congratulated the people of Iowa for their position in favor of a gold standard.

Marshalltown, Oct. 11.—Senator Fairbanks made here to night the last of the series of ten speeches delivered since leaving Omaha early this morning. The day was one of the most successful of the western tour, both in point of attendance and interest. While there was no lack of either at any of the meetings Watrous supplied the largest attendance and there also was the highest pitch of enthusiasm attained. At that place the meeting was held in the public park. The crowd was so extended that the senator's voice could not be heard on the outskirts and the people so thronged the streets that it was almost impossible for the automobile in which he was seated to make its way to the park. The most interesting event of the day occurred at Fort Dodge, where Senator Fairbanks spoke from the rear platform of the car. Observing the aged father of Senator Dolliver seated in a carriage in the rear of the crowd, Fairbanks descended from the car at the close of his speech, and making his way through the dense crowd, sought out the old man and greeted him heartily, engaging him in conversation while the train remained.

At Iowa Falls Fairbanks dwelt upon the prosperity of the farmers. He said: "An eminent Democratic authority, some time ago, in the hope of winning the support of the agricultural vote, asserted the Republican party had done but little for the farmers of the country. He contrasted the expenditure of five or six million dollars for the support of the agricultural department, with expenditures for the support of other branches of the federal service. His statement was not only entirely accurate, though he did not mean that it should fall short of the absolute truth. The Republican party has not only appropriated over five million dollars for the support of that department, at the head of which is the great secretary of agriculture, James Wilson, of Iowa, but it appropriated more than twenty millions at the last session of congress for the support of the rural free delivery service throughout the United States. That service is one of the fruits of Republican administration. More important than these are the benefits coming to the farmers of the United States through the beneficent operation of policies of the Republican party. The fact is our farmers have been benefited by the operation of these policies during the last seven and a half years more than they have been benefited in all the history of the republic. We will understand that eight years ago the products of the farm brought inadequate prices in the market and that since then their value has greatly increased. We have found everywhere among the farmers of the country where I have been, where they have been able to pay off mortgages incurred during the Democratic administration with the fruits of the Republican property. In all villages and cities in the great agricultural regions farmers have money on deposit in banks. They have become in many places money lenders. Down in Kansas the other day I learned that many farmers of that state and of Oklahoma had invested in millions of dollars worth of Philippine bonds floated in the United States and I learned that farmers of some sections of the country of our country have invested their savings under a Republican administration. In bonds that have been negotiated by one of the powers now engaged in war in the far east.

The farmers of the United States were never more prosperous than under the Republican administration and the great question is why they stand loyally by the policies which have stood loyally by them.

IS AMBITIOUS.

London, Oct. 11.—The Times' correspondent in Rome, upon what he is inclined to regard as accurate information, says: "It appears Emperor William has conceived and is attempting to execute a master stroke of policy by bringing into the orbit of the dreadnought the Vatican, hitherto its most persistent foe, thus bringing within measurable distance the realization of the emperor's life-long dream of a revival of the holy Roman empire in fact, if not in name under Hohenzoller leadership."

ANOTHER VICTIM.

New York, Oct. 11.—When Herman Sachs died to night in the Roosevelt hospital, twenty minutes after he had been admitted as a patient, another death was added to the long list of those which Coroner Scholer believes were caused by the use of wood alcohol in whisky sold in New York. There are now sixteen dead on this list. The other deaths occurred so frequently during the past few days that an investigation was inaugurated and the authorities believe wood alcohol was mixed with whisky drunk by the men. The police have taken possession of the saloon.

SHE GOT THE SCHOOL.

A young lady of this city felt she was ready to teach school so applied for one in the country and though she was really qualified, her short dress and youthful appearance were against her and she failed of the coveted appointment. Determined not to be outdone in that manner she returned home, combed her hair down the sides of her head in the most staid manner donned a long dress belonging to an older sister, added a veil to her outfit, and tried it again in another part of the country. She was received with favor though she was woefully awkward handling a long dress for the first time but all went well and the bargain was closed when an inconspicuous director asked her age. Assuming a look of injured dignity she braced herself back and remarked that was a delicate question to ask an old maid school teacher, so it wasn't urged and though she is supposed to be no longer an idea that she was seventeen.

CORN HARVEST.

Corn cutting is progressing very well, although the crop is down and tangled pretty badly. Some report that it will run as high as eight bushels to the shock, but this is probably a high estimate. The ears are unusually large and well filled, and most of the crop is well matured.

Judge Parker now says he "believes" that the gold standard is firmly established. A majority of the Democratic members of the house is ready at the first opportunity to show their belief in the Bryan dollar.

Four years ago at this time Democratic orators were warning the people that the nation would go to swift ruin if the gold standard was adopted as a fixed policy of the government.

Representative Bourke Cockran is going to make a western tour as soon as the Democratic committee makes a list of the localities in which free trade speeches promise to be popular.

Democratic candidates for congress got very busy when asked to furnish a list of their party's vital issues which have lasted through more than one campaign.

"The nomination of Judge Parker virtually nullifies the anti-trust plank of the platform," says Mr. Bryan in his Commoner. The election of a Democratic house would make the nullification complete.

OUR COUNTY TICKET.

All along the line Republicans should be awake to the importance of electing the whole ticket from top to bottom, and to that end attention is called to the county ticket which should have its due share of attention. For the good of the country at large it is indispensable that the Republican cause should prevail; for the good of Illinois the election of Deneen is needed above all things and for the good of Morgan county it is all important that the Republican candidates on the county ticket should be chosen. For state's attorney, Bert A. VanWinkle has been named. He is a rising young lawyer, well read and industrious. He is a gentleman who will well perform the duties of the important office and should by all means receive the votes of the people.

The circuit clerk's office was never better managed than it has been during the past eight years. Economy, promptness, politeness to all and first class business methods have prevailed and the election of Charles L. Hayden to that office will continue that condition of affairs.

For the important office of coroner the party has named Dr. J. H. Spencer. A doctor has many advantages in filling that office as all well know, and Dr. Spencer is one who will do the county good service if chosen.

The veteran instructor, Prof. J. H.
DeLong, has been named for county superintendent of schools. He has had long experience as a teacher and well understands the needs and wants of the places of instruction. He has for years been in the field and has superior qualifications which will be well for the people if they give him a majority of their suffrages.

The office of county commissioner is one of great importance and should have the best men to fill it: men of experience, business qualifications, promptness in the management of affairs, ability to deal with large and small questions, knowledge of the wants of the public, the skill and experience to manage affairs. Such a man is George Detrick, the Republican nominee, and he should by all means be chosen with the others.

For surveyor, Mansell Dudley will make a good official. He is young, ambitious to succeed, able to fill the office, a gentleman who has bravely worked his way along and one whom the people should be ready to recognize in all reasonable ways. He will make a capable official and should have a majority of the votes.

A Wise Inspector

(Original.)

From my youth I desired to work up a case with detectives, and at last, luck threw an opportunity in my way. Returning from a journey I found a small satchel on a seat in the car I was leaving and picked it up. When passing through the station gate a couple of men stared at me so intently that I asked if they were looking for a lost satchel. They proved to be detectives watching the train. There had been a robbery of diamonds up the road, and they were looking for the thief. The bag was opened and found to contain the very property they were looking for.

The thief had doubtless become frightened and left it on purpose.
"There's a big reward offered for this," said the inspector at the police office where I was taken with the Jewels, "which you will get, but I want you to help me trap the thief."

He wrote an advertisement stating that a bag containing diamonds had been found on a train and the owner could have the same by applying to the finder.

It didn't seem to me that the thief would be likely to walk into such a palpable trap, and so, I told the inspector. He drew back laughingly and asked me where I had been educated in detective work. I confessed that my knowledge of the subject had mostly come from reading detective stories, and this mollified him. When a few days after the insertion a note signed
"G. U. E." written in an excellent hand, well spelled and well expressed, but extremely guarded, came for me.
I hung my head to the inspector and told him that it was plain he was much more farseeing than I had supposed.

Several notes passed, each stating plainly that the last what was expected, and finally G. U. E. wrote offering that if I would deliver the Jewels I was to have half their value, he agreeing to turn them into cash at his own risk. I accepted the terms, stipulating that I should be paid cash on delivery. I was to take the jewels to a certain number on a certain street at an appointed hour.

The inspector, in order to win the confidence of the thief, so that we might make a more certain and complete job, borrowed the jewels, which had been turned over to the owner, and had facsimiles made of them, which were handed to me in the very article I had found on the train. The inspector gave me full instructions. I was to go to the appointed place and keep the thief dithering as to the value of the jewels for twenty minutes.
Meanwhile the police were to surround the house and within the twenty minutes enter and make the arrest. I told the inspector that it would be better for him to send one of his own trained men in my place, but he told me that the thief doubtless had kept watch to see who had taken the satchel and such a plan wouldn't work at all. I thought I might be at some risk, but my admiration for detectives and my desire to take part in their clever work bowed me up, and I consented to keep the appointment.

I found the house to be a small, dingy looking dwelling, standing on a lot by itself, not nearer than thirty feet, to any other building. I rang the doorbell and was admitted by a man.
I asked if he was G. U. E. He led me to a back room, and we at once commenced negotiations. He asked me what value I put upon the jewels, and I named a sum double what it really was. He examined them and at once agreed to my valuation.

"That makes half their value $7,500," he said, and counted out new crisp bills, mostly of $500 each, making up the amount. I was quite taken aback at the rapidity with which the transaction had gone through and began to show signs of wanting more, whereupon the man told me that if I was not satisfied to take my jewels and go.
This would have spoiled the plan, so to gain time I set about counting the bills. While I was thus engaged I heard a door latch click and, looking up, found the man had gone with the jewels. I sprang for the door and endeavored to open it. It had been locked by a spring lock with no knob on my side of it.

There was nothing to do but go out the front door and notify the police who were to have surrounded the house. Seeing one of them in front of the door I called him in, and, followed by several of the others, he darted into the house and began to ransack it. Not a person was to be found. The house had been surrounded since I entered it and no one had gone out. After a considerable search a tunnel was found leading from the cellar to a deserted blacksmith shop ninety feet away. It, too, was empty.

This didn't seem so sharp on the part of the police, after all, but I remembered that the man had false jewels and I had $7,500. The bills were taken to the police office, where the inspector sat behind his desk in no good humor at the failure of his plan. He took one of the bills, held it up to the light, put a magnifying glass to it and grunted:

"Counterfeit!"
I formed my own conclusions. Counterfeiters seeing the advertisement hoped to turn some of their wares into diamonds, a good investment for them, and personated the thief who had stolen the jewels. There was a chance that the thief who had stolen the Jewels desired to realize on them, but as this was not the case they got only paste for their "queer."

After I had thus figured the matter out I wrote a note to the inspector telling him that I had guessed the meaning of the letters G. U. E. They stood for "Get Up Early."

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.
Hew the Little Negromancer Makes
Wet Sand Dry.
The table being cleared by her assistant, the witch has brought in a basin and a small bag of sand. She invites members of the audience to advance to the table and throw handfuls of sand in the basin, which is partly filled with water. When all are seated she dips her hand in the basin and withdraws the sand perfectly dry.

This trick was long kept secret by the Hindoo fakirs, but, like most things about conjuring, its explanation is surprisingly simple. The sand is prepared beforehand by being heated in a frying pan. When it becomes sufficiently hot a small piece of paraffin is placed on it and allowed to melt. The sand is then taken off the stove and allowed to dry. The wax coats every minute grain of the sand, which when dry does not appear to have been thus treated. A gentle shake of the hand should be given when it is lifted from the water to insure the sand being perfectly dry.

ESKIMO CHILD DEAD. The second Eskimo child ever born in the United States died at the Eskimo village on the Pike at the world's fair grounds Sunday afternoon.

The little Northlander was born in a hut in the village Sept. 29, and appeared to have more than a fighting chance for survival. The weather conditions of the past few days, however, have been so variable that the climax of heat was more than he could stand.

The baby was unchristened and was to have been named by Mrs. David R. Francis. He was the second Eskimo born in the United States, the first, Nancy Columbia, having been brought into the world at the Columbian exposition in Chicago. Nancy Columbia was present Sunday when the death occurred.

MATRIMONIAL

ZINK-SCHIRZ.

At the Church of Our Savior Tuesday morning, at 8 o'clock, Mr. James Zink, of Columbus, Ohio, was united in marriage to Miss Anna Maria Schirz, of this city.

The ceremony was performed by Very Rev. Donn Crowe at 8 o'clock. The service was very largely attended by the many friends and relatives of the bride and groom. The bride party entered the church to the strains of the wedding march, from Lohengrin, played by Professor Wortman. First entered the ushers, Thomas Duffner and Frank Schirz, the groom accompanied by the maid, Miss Julia Frey, of Springfield, and following came the bride, supported by her brother, Nicholas Schirz. The party was met at the altar by the priest and according to the rites of the Roman Catholic church were joined in the holy bonds of matrimony.

The bride was beautifully attired in a white broadcloth tailor made gown and hat to match. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses.

Miss Frey wore a similar gown and carried American Beauty roses.

After the ceremony the bride party was driven to the beautiful suburban home of the bride, where an elaborate wedding breakfast was served in courses. The dining room was decorated with asparagus fern and tea roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Zink left on the afternoon train for the east, where they will visit Baltimore, New York city, Washington and other eastern points. After a tour of six weeks they will make their home in Columbus, Ohio.

Mr. Zink is connected with the Scioto Buggy company, of Columbus.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Schirz and is a lady of sterling qualities.

Mr. and Mrs. Zink were the recipients of many valuable presents from their friends and relatives.

Those attending the wedding from out of the city were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Hinshberger and Miss Julia Frey, of Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. W. Bishop, of Chicago; and Miss Isabel Schirz, of St. Louis.

COWHERD-LEMON. Noel Cowherd, of Louisville, Ky., and Miss Fannie Lemon, of Murray, Ky., were married Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock by Rev. T. H. Marsh, at his residence. They will reside in Louisville, Ky.

PERDIX-DETERDING. Wednesday evening, Oct. 5, was the date of a most interesting social event. The celebration took place at the very pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Deterding, of Concord. It was the occasion of the marriage of their daughter, Etta to George Perdix, Jr., of Chapin.

The parlors were tastefully decorated in shades of white and pink, and the work of the sister of the bride, Miss Alma Deterding presided at the piano and as the clock chimed the hour of six the notes of Mendelssohn's wedding march signaled the approach of the happy pair, who were preceded by Elder J. W. Camp, the officiating clergyman, and little Miss Esther Brockhouse as ring bearer. Very beautiful and impressive was the service by which two promising young lives were blended in one.

The bride was becomingly attired in a handsome gown of lavender silk and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Good wishes and warmest congratulations were freely dispensed, after which a most excellent collation was served, reflecting much credit upon the culinary skill of the hostess.

There were about eighty guests, who came laden with numerous choicest and valuable gifts, consisting of china, cut glass, silver, linen and various articles for the adornment and comfort of their home.

The contracting parties to this union have been reared in our midst and consequently are well and favorably known. The bride in connection with personal grace and beauty is cultivated and accomplished. While away at school she evinced a special taste and talent for taxidermy and has a handsome cabinet of specimens, the work of her hands. The groom is a prosperous young man of excellent character, gentlemanly and genial in his bearing, and will no doubt fulfill the promise of his youth. The newly wedded pair departed for St. Louis, where they will visit the fair.

Those attending the wedding from a distance were Mrs. P. L. Pullmer and daughter, Miss Minnie Pullmer, Hamilton, Ill.; Rev. and Mrs. Camp, Riggsport; Mrs. Ida Oberste, Oakland, Cal.; Mrs. Laura Rice, Princeville; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Perdix, Beardstown; Edward Krohn, George Mauer and sister, Miss Ella, Virginia, and Miss Edna Wilson, Woodson.

OMMEN-WILKER. At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wilker, Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock occurred the wedding of Charles Ommen, of Valparaiso, Neb., and Miss Tillie Wilker, of Mercedos, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. Stagger. The wedding march was skillfully played by Miss Minnie Wilker, cousin of the bride. The attendants were Miss Cora Ommen, sister of the groom, and Miss Ella Conrady and Messrs. Charles Gard and Henry Wilker, brother of the bride. The bride was tastefully attired in a gown of white Persian lawn and carried roses, while the bridesmaids were attired in white and carried carnations.

After hearty congratulations a sumptuous wedding supper was served.

The bride is one of Mercedos's most popular young ladies, highly esteemed by all who know her. The groom is a prosperous farmer.

Many handsome presents belokened the love and esteem of relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ommen will spend several weeks visiting relatives and friends, after which they will leave for their home in Nebraska.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY.

No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectually and permanently, but prevents these diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. For sale by all leading druggists.

Archie was mad and things sounded worse than the reality were, for there was very little damage done and Jesse offered to pay for it, putting all the blame on himself. People should be careful how they drive after dark, for a collision might cause broken bones or even death; to say nothing of the inconvenience and damage to property.

CHERRIES

(Copyright, 1904, by H. T. Taber.)

The day he landed in Japan he found her in the groves at Yaginto, when there was celebration for the coming of the blossom which is worshipped in the April weather—the blossom of the cherry.

Sewall thought there was only one name for her, and though his vocabulary was indistinct and incomplete, he managed to make her understand that he would call her Cherries.

"Honorable Yellow Hair," she said, falling into his mood. "It thanks me, Yues."

And so that was the meeting of Sewall and the little woman whom he called Cherries.

Sewall was a writer of fiction. His friends said he wrote the "fictionest" kind of fiction—the kind that doesn't sell—but somehow he had managed to get a book published, and the sales had given him a royalty which he religiously saved in order that he might go to Japan.

So, after he had come in the spring season to the mountains of Yaginto, he had found one day in the gardens the girl that he called Cherries. She was not of the Japanese type. In the first place, her hair lacked the ebony blackness which so surely denotes the type. And then her eyes were not black, like those of her sisters, and her cheeks flushed readily, which is another thing that indicates the mixture of foreign blood. But beyond this there was no difference. She wore the costume of the people, and her walk was that uncertain and attractive toddle which the American sees only in Japanese plays. She was a mere girl in years as well as in actions, and when Sewall found her she talked to him in the manner of one who but indistinctly understands the construction of the western language.

From that day Sewall seemed to see her everywhere. In the celebrations in the garden and in the tea places where he went for refreshment there was always the vision of the little girl he had seen in the day when the cherries blossomed in the groves. But it was not in her physical being that he saw her, for after that first day he could find her nowhere. He simply dreamed of her, and "cherries" came to be a word that stood out on every page of the white paper upon which he tried to write his impressions of Japan.

Who she was he did not know. The American consul had presented him to her, and the American consul had gone away to Kobe on a mission, so Sewall could not ask him the name of the girl who had charmed him out of his day's work.

But one day, after two weeks which had seemed as many years to Sewall, he found her in the gardens with her sisters, playing with the paints and the brushes, painting cherry blossoms on a dainty screen. He approached, and she recognized him instantly.

"Most august Yellow Hair," she said. "It is of pleasantness that my miserable vision is greeted with thy sight."

"I am very glad to see you again," said Sewall gently, though in his heart he wanted to say, "I have wanted to see you all these weeks."

"Aes," said Cherries.

"Yes," said Sewall as he sat down on the ground beside her.

And then he told her how his mother was coming out from America and how she was a very great woman.

"Bigger'n that?" said Cherries, stretching her arms out as far as they would go.

"Well, no," replied Sewall, "hardly that big, but I mean that she is a great woman because she is president of a lot of societies, and she writes books and reads papers at clubs, and all that sort of thing."

"Aes," said Cherries, and that was as near as she ever came to saying "yes."

"And now," continued Sewall, "I want you to meet my mother. She will be here tomorrow, and I am to give a little tea for her at the hotel. Will you and the sisters come?"

"It gives me mooch thanks, most Honorable Yellow Hair," said Cherries, as she bowed low and showed the most marvelously beautiful neck and the unusual little curls that clustered at the back.

The next day Sewall gave the tea at the hotel. His mother had arrived, and Cherries and the sisters and the consul and his wife and a lot of other Americans were there.

Sewall presented Cherries to the mother. The "great woman" raised her eyebrows and regarded the little girl critically.

"Beautiful," she exclaimed. "Why don't you marry her, my boy, and take her to New York?" She spoke playfully in English.

"But what was it that the Honorable Great Woman was pleased to say?" asked Cherries.

"She asked why I didn't marry you—you be my wife, you know," said Sewall. "Will you?" And his voice was earnest.

"It would give me mooch thanks," said Cherries. Then into her cheeks came a flush such as Sewall had seen when he gave her the name.

So that is how Arthur Sewall, writer of fiction, came to win his Japanese bride.

JOHN BRIDGES.

Its Disadvantage.

"Professor Dryadust is much opposed to coeducation."

"He's prejudiced. He married a girl who was in his class at college."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

He must have delivered the message. Mr. Astor came.

Another Union.

Father—Come, Tommy, it's time for bed.

Tommy—Not much it ain't.

Father—What's that? Come in here this instant!

Tommy—Not on your life! Us boys have organized, an' we're strikin' in twelve hours 'play an' more candy.—Philadelphia Press.

AND MR. ASTOR CAME.

The very latest London anecdote concerning Mr. William Waldorf Astor dates from a certain dinner party given by the eccentric expatriate at which the Hon. Joseph Chamberlain and his wife were guests.

The two started in ample time, but owing to a street blockade were delayed and arrived one minute late. Ushered into the reception room, they found it vacant. The guests had been seated promptly on the stroke of the hour.

Mr. Chamberlain wasn't worried. "Tell Mr. Astor to come and conduct Mrs. Chamberlain to the table," he said in his blindest tone to the dumb.

"Y-yes, sir," said the servant, with one glance at the awe inspiring monocle.

He must have delivered the message. Mr. Astor came.

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde, or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character, for from the disposition of the eyebrows, bald-headed man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A gorm causes baldness. Prof. Sabouraud, of Paris, France, inoculated a rabbit with Dandruff germs, causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous germs, it is necessary to apply Newbros, Hairdye.

Destroy the cause—you remove the effect. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpelde Co., Detroit, Mich.

THE MUNDY DEATH TRAP LOOP

ONE OF THE GREAT MUNDY SHOW FREE ACTS, PERFORMED EVERY AFTERNOON AND NIGHT ON THE SQUARE, IN ADDITION TO THE LEAP-THE-GAY, THE HIGH DIVE AND ONE LEGGED KILPATRICK'S FAMOUS RIDE FOR LIFE ON A BICYCLE DOWN A FLIGHT OF TOWERING STAIRS AT EAST STATE AND EAST STREETS.

PROGRAM OF FREE ATTRACTIONS TO DAY.

2 p. m. and 7:30 p. m.: High Dive.
Southwest corner of Park.
2:15 and 7:15 p. m.: Kilpatrick's Ride for Life, corner East Street and East State street.
4:30 and 10:30 p. m.: Loop-the-Loop,
South Side of Park.
6:00 and 10:45 p. m.: Loop the Gap, corner West Street and West State Street.

Large as were the crowds at the Eagles' Carnival Monday night, the attendance last night was more than twice as heavy. This was the natural result of the endorsement of the entertainment given the shows after the opening night's performance and verified to the very letter the correctness of Colonel Mundy's theory that in every community the better class of people are in the majority and such being the case, by appealing to the refined class of people he is catering to the greatest number.

THE PUBLIC CONVINCED.

If there ever had existed any question as to whether or not the people of Jacksonville are lovers of clean amusement, that doubt was dispelled forever last night, when, after having read in the local papers, the story of the inaugural night's performances, there remained no timidity in the public mind as to whether the attractions of the great Mundy shows were indeed what had been claimed for them in advance of their coming.

As usual the major portion of the crowds last night visited the performing wild animal show and were duly electrified with the splendid program there to be seen.

A FAIRY PRINCESS.

Princess Neuma, the tiny wife of humanity on exhibition at the west side of the square, at State street, held receptions last night so large as to necessitate several extra shows.

All the other shows had as much as they could do to handle the crowds that were anxious to visit them. "Creation" and "Lotta" in particular being crowded to their limits at each performance.

THRILLING FREE ACTS.

The list of free acts comprises enough sensational and life-risking stunts to satisfy the most blasé. The high-dive and death-trap loop within the square, the loop-the-gap on West State street at West street and Kilpatrick's famous "Ride for Life" at East State and East streets, go to make up a program of dare-devil feats that never before were witnessed in any one city at the same time.

Each of these acts is performed twice daily, afternoons and nights, at regular scheduled hours and all are entirely free to the public.

QUEEN'S CONTEST ENDS TO NIGHT.

To night the contest for queen of the carnival will come to an end. At 6 o'clock to night the boxes will be gathered up from their various locations around the city and at 7 o'clock the final voting place will be opened on the square.

There a large bachelorette will be elected and upon this the total vote will be brought every 15 minutes up to 10 o'clock. After that hour the bachelorette will cease and for one hour the boxes will be open for the receipt of the closing vote. The final result will be announced at about 11:30 p. m., after the closing hour's vote is counted.

The standing of the contest to 6 o'clock
last night was as follows:

Miss Mamie Nunes	2506
Miss Julia O'Brien	1860
Miss Hulda Harden	1722
Miss Ethel Sherry	1223
Miss Mae Mason	1069
Miss Mae Hickman	415
Miss Maggie Coffman	240
Miss Edith Vasconcellos	232
Miss Grace Vieira	51

The friends of Miss Mae Mason have reentered her in the contest.

UNIQUE CELEBRATION

Esquire and Mrs. B. B. Gray Observe 34th Wedding Anniversary—Marriage Ceremony Repeated.

A surprise party was given to Esquire and Mrs. B. B. Gray Tuesday evening in honor of their thirty-fourth wedding anniversary. About thirty of their old-time acquaintances gathered together and enjoyed a jolly good time. It was a perfect surprise to them in every way.

As the guests arrived each placed a well-filled basket upon the table and they proceeded to attire the bride in old-time wedding style. Mr. and Mrs. Gray were then led before Esquire Albert Aven, who performed the wedding ceremony just as it had been performed thirty-four years ago. After they were again made one an elegant wedding supper was served at which all present enjoyed a thorough good time.

The final amusement was a cake walk, in which George Metcalf and the bride bore prominent parts, after which all bid the bridal party a happy good night and expressed many good wishes that the bridal couple would enjoy many more years as happily as they have the past.

Those present from out of the city were as follows: David Hamilton and wife, of Eureka, Kans.; Miss Dixie Harrison, of St. Joseph, Mo.; Mrs. Edward Webb, of Omaha, Neb., and Mrs. E. C. Carpenter, of Rood-house.

UNIVERSITY

EXTENSION

Course Opened by Prof. Troop—Splendid Lecture on Charles Dickens—Large Audience.

The first lecture on the university extension course, to be given this season under the auspices of the Woman's club, was delivered last evening, when Dr. J. G. Carter Troop, A. M., associate professor of English literature in the University of Chicago, addressed an audience which almost filled the large auditorium of the high school building. And all felt more than repaid by the rare treat which they enjoyed, and which made the evening a very fitting opening of the season's study.

Superintendent Webster, of the city schools, made a few introductory remarks in introducing the speaker, who entered at once upon his theme. After a comprehensive review of the subject of the course, "The Great Novelists of the Nineteenth Century," he entered upon the subject for the evening, Charles Dickens, whom he characterized as the master of a vast and fascinating stage, a writer of preternatural keenness of observation and boundless joviality. The number of his characters run up into the thousands and his works have been of such an unexampled popularity that during the ten years just preceding his death their sales aggregated in England alone 4,239,000 copies.

Dr. Troop then spoke of the humble origin of the great novelist and of the conditions in which he lived for a time in London, which had so much to do with the framing and coloring of his great works. He followed his career from the blacking factory to the attorneys' office, as parliamentary reporter of the Morning Chronicle, and through his early literary efforts. Even in his earliest work, the "Sketches by Boz," he exhibited a vigor, variety and soundness of construction which he had gained from the eighteenth century writers—Richardson, LeSage, Smollett, Fielding and Goldsmith, from whose works he educated himself, having attended school for only a brief period.

In an unimpaired manner, full of wit and keen perception of the elements of the humorous and pathetic situations, Mr. Troop rapidly reviewed the principal works of the foremost English novelist, giving in a charming manner impersonations and scenes from the stories, enlivening the whole by a constant flow of comment on the beauties or striking characteristics of this or that passage or character, taking them in turn from Pickwick Papers, Oliver Twist, The Old Curiosity Shop, Martin Chuzzlewit and Dombey & Son. The entire presentation was of unusual interest and inspired the hearers with a deeper interest in and a greater appreciation of the stories that they had read and enjoyed in the past. At the close of the lecture the audience burst into spontaneous applause. The class for consultation was then held and many took advantage of the opportunity to ask questions and receive suggestions for the pursuit of the course of study.

Mrs. David Reid, for the Woman's club, announced that they had secured Dr. Troop to give his lecture on "The Development of the Novel" at the meeting of the club Saturday afternoon. To hear this lecture all holders of tickets to the university extension course are invited to be guests of the club. All who secure tickets between this time and Saturday are also invited. The lecture will be given at the Woman's college.

I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar and my lungs are now as sound as a bell. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." For sale by J. A. Obermeyer, City Drug Store.
